DETAILED ACTION

Continued Examination Under 37 CFR 1.114

1. A request for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, including the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e), was filed in this application after final rejection. Since this application is eligible for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, and the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e) has been timely paid, the finality of the previous Office action has been withdrawn pursuant to 37 CFR 1.114. Applicant's submission filed on 06 February 2008 has been entered.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

3. Claims 55, 56, 61, 62, 65-77, 81, and 85-88 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Ravenscroft et al. (5,480,423). Ravenscroft reference discloses a stabilizer (4) comprising a stent-underlying portion (27) having a distal end (at 13) and a proximal end (at 9) defining a length (L6) there between (see figure 1). The stabilizer has a non-inflatable core and one or more members (9, 11, and 13) for engaging the stent inner periphery. The members comprise radial protuberances (see figure 2a) that are ring-shaped. The protuberances are distributed along the length of the stent-underlying portion. The sheath has a lower coefficient of friction than the stabilizer as the sheath is made of Teflon (see column 5, line 21). The stabilizer comprises an inner core and a covering (19, for example) over the inner core. The fingers (16) can also be considered radial protuberances and those fingers penetrate open spaces in the stent (see figure 1a). The stabilizer has a proximal shoulder (26) that does not underlie the stent. Protuberance 13 is considered the distal protuberance, with protuberances 9 and 11 considered the intermediate protuberances.

Response to Arguments

4. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 55, 56, 61, 62, 65-77, 81, and 85-88 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.
